Up and Down Tag Questions

How to play

Each player has a counter.

- The players place their counters on START.
- One player starts by rolling the die. He/She moves along the board according to the number shown on the die.
For example: the player rolls a '4'. The player lands on 'He agreed to help you...'
- That player reads the sentence and jumps to the Tag Question in square number 5, and finishes the question. For example, "He agreed to help you, didn't he?"
- If a player rolls the die and lands on the Tag Question, he/she moves back to the first square with the beginning sentence and then jumps to the Tag Question. For example, if the player rolls a three, that player moves back to square number 2, reads the sentence and then jumps to square number 12 to finish the Tag Question.
- It is then the next player's turn.
- The above rules apply for the remainder of the game.
- The players go up and down arrows on the way to the winning square.
- The player who reaches - You aren't the winner... ...are you? Yes, I am the winner. - is the winner.
